THE CITY.

The State Fair. Yesterday morning the scene opened brilliantly. A cloudless sky and a temperate atmosphere imparted an unusual animation to the city.

The scene inside the enclosure was no less interesting. The crowds of people were everywhere, and the air was filled with the sound of music and the laughter of children.

The "Fine Arts Hall," already presents a slow stow of goods. There are large and well arranged groups of Photographs from CARPIS, GORDON's and FURNER's Galleries, and the best display of Oil Paintings that we have seen for many a day.
